

BIODIESEL

A group of professionals concerned with the environmental and energy problems, and convinced that they can be resolved by applying their technical, and commercial experience, decided to undertake a project for the development of Bio - fuels in Argentina.

As a result, Oil Fox was established in 1997 as the first brand name in Biodiesel in this country.

Oilfox is composed of industrial and professional business executives with proven expertise in fuel pricing systems (a key factor affecting both profit and cost performance). The company provides technological, commercial and financial solutions to the local transport and agribusinesses.

This allows us to be the driving force in this generation of vegetable-origin fuels, and to make a healthy contribution to the agricultural economy, to urban passenger and cargo transportation, and others sectors of high incidence in our environment.

Based on the experience gained in developed countries, we have developed a special biofuel for local agribusiness, public transportation companies and freight forwarders, using state-of-the-art technology and methods.

In addition to the local business laws, our company is subject to the regulations of the Energy Department preventing debasement and tax evasion.

In summary, OIL FOX WAS THE FIRST BIOFUEL PRUCER IN ARGENTINA.